IT'S CRIMINAL!

Lawyers protest at proposal to close town's courthouses

LEGAL professionals have joined forces to campaign against the proposed closure of Harlow's magistrates and county courts.

Both courts are on a Government hitlist of 103 identified by the Ministry of Justice as under-used or inadequate and have been earmarked for closure as part of a cost-cutting shake-up of the justice system.

If the proposals are implemented, criminal, family and housing case cases would be heard at Chelmsford – a 20-mile journey from Harlow – while civil matters would be dealt with 40 miles away in Cambridge.

But lawyers working in Harlow claim the plans, which are currently at the consultation stage, will have a huge impact on the town, forcing those attending court to make expensive travel arrangements and deterring others from taking legal action.

Stephanie Holmes, a family lawyer at Attwaters Solicitors, told

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertssexnews.co.uk

the Star: "People relying on public transport to travel to Chelmsford or Cambridge risk turning up late or not being able to attend at all.

"This could create court sanctions, cost implications and could ultimately deter people from pursuing legal action through the appropriate channels.

"While Harlow is not a particularly affluent area, there is a clear drive to regenerate the town. The closure of our courts would seem to contradict that very aim."

Solicitor Tony Scott, of Barnes & Partners, added: "Justice should be accessible for all, something these proposals fail to take into account.

"Getting to Chelmsford for a 10am hearing without the use of a car would mean catching a bus at 7.30am and then making a tortuous 10-minute journey on foot

Serial teenage burglar jailed for five years

A TEENAGE burglar who escaped a prison sentence despite admitting to almost 700 offences over a six-year period is finally behind bars.

Bradley Wernham was told by a judge at Chelmsford Crown Court yesterday (Wednesday) he had blown his last chance by attempting to break into another house.

Judge Christopher Ball jailed Werham (19), formerly of Orchard Croft, Harlow, for five years just nine months after his leniency sparked a national media outcry.

He told Wernham: "I took a deliberate and considered risk but you got a buzz from committing offences and that is the underscoring reason this has failed.

"You cast yourself as the victim; you are not. The public are the victims."

The judge said no sheds, shops, houses, churches or offices were safe from Wernham who had been given a chance to break his criminal lifestyle.

Wernham was back in court for the attempted burglary of a house in Witham in January of this year, a charge to which he pleaded guilty.

The court heard Wernham had thrown something through a back window but was seen by a neighbour who alerted police.

"Police were already in the vicinity because at that time the defendant was under observation," said prosecutor Rex Bryan.

Wernham claimed he had "flipped" after being followed by police following his earlier sentence.

Rain can't stop play as kids have fun

EVEN a torrential downpour couldn't dampen the spirits of youngsters enjoying the activities at a fun-packed playday in Harlow Town Park yesterday (Wednesday).

Hundreds took part in arts and crafts workshops, storytelling sessions, dancing, face-painting and a bouncy castle.

The annual event was organised by Harlow Council and funded by Harlow Education Consortium in conjunction with the national Playday initiative, which seeks to promote and celebrate children's right to play.

Harlow Council chairman Sue Livings said: "There was a fantastic atmosphere. It was great to see so many children enjoying playing."

Murder trial wife: 'I didn't stab him'

THE jury in the trial of a woman accused of killing her husband has been told evidence from a woman who overheard shouting before Ronald Lowe died left no doubt that he was stabbed by his wife.

Susan Lowe (55), of Long Ley, denies murdering Mr Lowe (43) at their home on August 30 last year after a drunken row, claiming that he stabbed himself.

In his closing speech, prosecutor Stephen Harvey said the evidence of neighbour Tania O'Brien, removed any doubt about what had happened.

"The most significant aspect is the objective evidence of Miss O'Brien, a narrative and a sound-

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

track you could set against what was going on," he said. "Her evidence removes any doubt about what was happening.

"She recalled she could hear shouting over four or five minutes, screaming and swearing. She heard a male voice saying 'Just do it,  do it' and a female voice saying: 'I  will'.

"Miss O'Brien also heard she was holding something because she said 'I'll  use this in a minute'. We know a minute later Ron died."

Lowe (55) denies the prosecution's claim that she murdered Mr Lowe after a drunken argument over an "indiscretion" he had with a mutual friend two years earlier.

Giving evidence, Lowe said she and her husband had been on their computers when he suddenly went into the living room saying he had had enough.

"I joined him and an argument began with raised voices," she said. "He was shouting in an aggressive tone and I responded."

She said she phoned her brother to ask him about the truth about her husband's relationship with the mutual friend, adding: "Ron was very angry, shouting and calling me names. He was really, really aggressive.

Questioned about shouts from Mr Lowe of "go on, do it," she said: "I told him I'd had enough. I was going to go to a solicitor for a divorce." She denied the comments were anything to do with her threatening him with a knife.

She said she went to the bathroom and locked herself inside but her husband followed her upstairs and flung open the door.

"He was there, bare-chested. He said 'I love you'. The knife was in his hand and I thought he was going to get me so I shut the door and wedged myself up against it.

"It all went quiet and then I saw Ron still standing there. He moved his arm and the knife came into the bathroom but there was no sign of any injury.

"I put the knife into the toilet cistern and then I saw the blood. He stood there looking at me and the blood just started. He went to the bedroom and I stayed in the bathroom for a few minutes.

"I heard a thud, looked round and saw him on the floor."

Mrs Lowe's counsel, Karim Khalil, told the jury: "The prosecution painted the picture of quiet Ron and his gobby wife but witnesses heard the opposite."

He said Mr Lowe's reaction to his wife phoning her brother to ask what he had been told about the indiscretion had changed from anger to exasperation.

And he disputed the prosecution claim that Miss O'Brien had heard a reference to a knife during the argument.

"If she said there was mention of a knife it was because she had heard the gossip the next morning," said Mr Khalil. "She was also flip-flopping over whether she used the phrase 'in a minute' over the planned use of the knife."

As the Star went to press the jury was still considering its verdict.

Lawyers' court protest through a town which will be unfamiliar to many.

"This will result in people turning up late or not turning up at all, which will create a huge backlog of adjourned cases and have serious cost implications for both the court service and those attending court."

The campaign has already won the support of both Harlow

Council and local MP Robert Halfon, who told the Star he had arranged to meet with Justice Minister Jonathan Djanogly next month to discuss the plans.

"I'm very much opposed to the proposals," he said. "They would have grave implications for Harlow and could result in a number of jobs being lost.

"We are one of the East of England's major towns and we are growing all the time. It's clear to me that our courts are absolutely vital in supporting and sustaining this growth and it's now up to us to make a strong case for their preservation."

To submit views on the proposed court closures, email stephanie.holmes@attwaters.co.uk or pick up a questionnaire from the reception at Attwaters Solicitors in West Square.

A golden year in the history of Passmores

PASSMORES School will be 50 years old next month and staff have contacted Nostalgia asking for our readers' help ahead of next month's celebrations.

The secondary school and technology college, pictured above in 1962, is planning a week of events to mark its golden anniversary.

There will be a 1960s day, an open week for former Passmores pupils and staff to take a look around the school, and a gala evening.

Headteacher Vic Goddard said the plans have generated a lot of interest among former staff and pupils.

"We have already had over 100 expressions of interest from as far afield as Spain and Canada and that was before the date was even finalised," he said.

Former school librarian Anita Dailey has been busy researching the history of Passmores. She has trawled through hundreds of documents, including old issues of the local papers including the Star, in the archives at the Museum of Harlow.

The results of her research will be made available in school during the open week. And this is where Star readers can help.

The school wants to hear from anyone who was a member of the sixth form in 1983 and performed in the final cabaret called Sixth Sense.

This was the year that the tertiary Harlow College expanded into the former Netteswell School.

The Passmores open week will take place from Monday, September 13 to Friday, September 17, culminating with the gala evening.

Any former pupils or members of staff who would like to register their interest in attending any of the events or anyone connected with the Sixth Sense production should contact the school by email at 50thanniversary@passmores.essex.sch.uk

● If you have any memories or pictures of Harlow you would like to share with our readers, send them to Nostalgia, Harlow Star, 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JW or by email to daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Music in the classroom

CONTINUING this week's school theme, this slightly faded photograph of the orchestra at Broadfields Junior School has landed on the Nostalgia desk.

It was taken in February 1968 and sent in by Norah Handscomb, of Altham Grove, Harlow.

"This photograph may well be of interest to your readers," she writes. "It goes back to the time when music was considered to be as important in schools as any other subject."

"This was a time when free music tuition was available at secondary schools on Saturday mornings."

Mrs Handscomb said the orchestra flourished under the leadership of music teacher Peter Miller. "I am sure that there are many 50-60 year-olds who remember him," she said. "Four people from the group are now professional musicians and there may be more that I don't know about."

Included in the picture are her daughter Jennifer (then 10) playing cello on the front row furthest left, and her son Christopher (then 8) playing the violin furthest right.

Christopher has gone on to play and write music professionally.

Mrs Handscomb taught at Broadfield Infant School and remembers taking pupils to the annual recorder festival at Mark Hall School.

Man jumped from bridge into path of m-way traffic

A MAN who jumped to his death from a bridge over the M25 intended to kill himself, a coroner has ruled.

Polish-born Krzysztof Makowski (31), of Sherrards Orchard, Harlow, was struck by a heavy goods vehicle as he leapt from the bridge onto the roadside lane of the motorway at Waltham Abbey on June 4 last year.

The inquest in Chelmsford was told that it would have taken less than one second for Mr Makowski to fall the seven metres from the railings above the road and there was nothing the lorry driver could have done to avoid him.

Post mortem tests revealed there were no signs of drugs or alcohol in Mr Makowski's blood. The cause of death was multiple injuries.

The inquest was told CCTV footage showed Mr Makowski climbing over the safety railings before jumping into the path of traffic.

Essex coroner Caroline Beasley-Murray recorded a verdict that Mr Makowski, whose family live in Poland and did not attend the inquest, committed suicide.

Rapist guilty of OAP sex attack

A MAN who admitted raping a pensioner in Harlow earlier this year will be sentenced next month.

David Catton (43), of Mayfield Park, Bishop's Stortford, pleaded guilty to charges of rape and assault when he appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court on Monday.

The court was told the attack took place at London Road, Harlow, on May 11. The victim was a woman in her 70s.

Woodland walk for Thomas and friends

YOUNGSTERS made tracks to Parndon Wood Nature Reserve on Saturday for the start of a Thomas The Tank Engine charity walk.

The children and their parents joined characters from the classic stories for a woodland stroll and singsong organised by local charity Parents of Autistic Children Together.

They then made their way to the reserve's conservation centre where they enjoyed tea and cakes, created Thomas masks and had their faces painted.

The day has so far raised £200 which will be split between PACT and the National Autistic Society.

PACT committee member Rowen Saunders said: "It was a great day out and the children really enjoyed meeting some of their favourite characters.

"We had a good singsong in the fresh air and the walk around the beautiful woodland was fantasti. It was a great way to raise money for a good cause."

AROUND 2,000 homes were left without water yesterday (Wednesday) morning after a main water pipe burst under one of Harlow's busiest roads.

The disruption affected homes in the Kingsmoor, Staple Tye, Great Parndon and Passmores areas of the town and meant hundreds of residents were forced to use bottled drinking water.

The pipe split at around 6.30am, flooding a large stretch of Southern Way with water and raw sewage. Police were forced to close the road between the Abercrombie Way and Partridge Road junctions.

Engineers from Veolia Water spent the morning working to restore the supply, but their efforts were hampered by a nearby mobile phone mast which needed supporting before excavations could begin.

Although the water supply was restored by midday, residents affected by the disruption criticised the water firm for failing to keep its customers informed about the disruption.

One Charters Cross resident told the Star: "We weren't given any information by the water company. The least you'd expect would be a card through the door explaining the situation and giving some sort of indication when our water was safe to use again.

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertssexnews.co.uk

"We originally thought it was a problem with our tank. It was only when one of our neighbours knocked on the door to say he was having the same problems that we realised it must be a burst water main."

A neighbour added: "We were lucky because we had enough water stored in the tank to have a shower, but it would have been nice to have been given some information by Veolia about what was going on."

Another resident living in nearby Bishopsfield said she had foul-smelling brown water coming from her taps after the supply was restored.

She said: "I thought it would eventually clear if I left it running for a couple of minutes but this disgusting stuff just kept coming out of the tap. I've no idea when it will be safe to drink."

A Veolia spokeswoman apologised to customers for the disruption to the water supply.

"Our main priority when the burst occurred was to isolate the main and ensure the repair was carried out as quickly and safely as possible so that any disruption was kept to a minimum," she added.

"The main was repaired within five hours and customers had their water supply restored by noon."

No guarantee of jobs for Harlow

SIR, Two letters in last week's Star - one from MP Robert Halfon and the other from Anthony Rogers - criticise Unite for its opposition to the proposed move of the Health Protection Agency to Harlow.

Having been born in the town and lived and worked here all my life, I fully support jobs for Harlow but I do not question Unite's right of representation.

What Mr Halfon and Mr Rogers need to realise is that Unite is a national union representing two million throughout the UK. Therefore, it also represents the workers in Gloucestershire as well as those in Harlow.

Mr Halfon talks of the creation of 1,000 jobs in Harlow by this move. What he does not say is that these are not new jobs; they already exist in Gloucestershire and Unite cannot favour one region over another.

In the past Mr Halfon has opposed the expansion of Stansted Airport which would have meant more jobs in the Harlow area. He claimed that only two per cent of jobs at the airport were filled by Harlow people. Perhaps he can tell us exactly how many of these 1,000 jobs will be ringfenced for Harlow residents.

How many of the positions will mean the current employees in Gloucestershire relocating to Harlow? Do we have the skills required for these posts in Harlow and how many jobs will be lost in GSK to accommodate this business?

May I suggest Mr Halfon starts doing his job by putting pressure on his government to guarantee the majority of these jobs are given to Harlow people instead of trying to score political points running down the unions in this way

Mr Rogers goes further by suggesting the links unions have with the Labour Party are a bad thing. He is correct when he says the unions financially support the Labour Party, as does big businesses the Conservative Party.

Over the years the unions have exercised their influence with the creation of the welfare state and the introduction of the Health and Safety at Work Act which has resulted in deaths in industry being reduced by 75 per cent.

The unions have not always been successful in their lobbying of Labour governments - they were totally against the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan - so no-one can say they control the Labour Party.

I dread to think where the working classes would be today if not for unions and without their political influence. No health and safety, no employment protection, no welfare state and very low incomes!

This may be what Mr Halfon and Mr Rogers would like, but it is most definitely not what I would like.

Union has a duty to voice concerns

SIR, I am disappointed by comments by Anthony Rogers attacking our country's biggest union of workers (Letters, July 30).

Trade unions have special health and safety representatives who have a right and duty to raise any fears, concerns or issues to protect workers and workplaces from possible future issues/accidents.

I am sure if no-one had highlighted this and something went wrong in the future, people would be asking why no-one had raised their voice.

It is very important to make current and future employers in the area aware of any possible issues so they

Shop's apology is not nearly enough

SIR, Having read the front page of last week's Star I feel compelled to express my disgust at the treatment of Christopher Page as a result of the terms of the alcohol licence metered out by Harlow Council to One Stop. Firstly, is One Stop so desperate for a licence that they are prepared to risk their reputation to get one, put their staff at risk of potential abuse and insult the dignity of their customers?

As they point out there are signs up explaining their alcohol purchase rules but that does not make them right. And what is Harlow Council thinking? What sort of bizarre terms are these that it has issued.

Perhaps One Stop and Harlow Council should get together and have a rethink.

And as for apologising to Mr Page, I suggest they go one step further and give him a year's supply of cider as recompense. Or do you need a license for that, too?

Julie Von Taylor
(address supplied - Editor)

FLASHBACK: Last week's front page story in the Star

Right way to stop underage drinking

SIR, I was saddened to hear about Christopher Page's struggle with retailer whose rules prevented him from enjoying a bottle of cider.

My sadness, however, concerns not the event itself but the way in which you plaster it across the front page.

Surely you, as an organisation with its ear to the ground, are aware of the difficulties faced in preventing underage alcohol consumption and anti-social behaviour at The Stow. Why then do you seek to undermine a policy which aims to do just that?

Local authorities and police, both in Harlow and elsewhere, tie themselves in knots trying to combat underage drinking and the policy of One Stop not to serve anyone without ID is a commendable step in the right direction.

True, the policy may not have been inspired by the most altruistic of motives. True, too, that there will be innocent casualties along the way, but the commitment to turn away business to uphold principles is one that should be applauded.

J. West

can address them before something goes wrong.

Mr Rogers' comments seem as nothing more than a stunt to attack the Unite union. Just remember, without unions we would still be working 14-18 hours a day for miserable wages in unsafe conditions.

I would also like to add that unions affiliated to the Labour Party do this to have their say in politics. It's not for the local Labour party to question this.

Council must save trees on pool site

SIR, May I add my comments to recent letters regarding the sale and development of Harlow Town Pool.

I know I am not alone in feeling that when the pool is demolished it will be a sad day for Harlow. We will lose a building which, although not perfect, is one of distinct architectural value and significance. Its demise is inevitable.

However, what about the amazing variety and importance of all the mature trees which are now screened behind the developers fortress fencing? Surely Harlow Council's planning officers cannot allow any of them to be destroyed.

The council has a legal duty of care for these trees and for them to give permission for them to be destroyed would be, to my mind, an act of gross vandalism.

It's not Passmores

SIR, Could somebody explain to me why the new school on the Brays Grove School site will be called Passmores School?

It is not in the Passmores area. I live in the Passmores area, a few minutes walk from Passmores House.

Is this just the headteacher's decision?

Town leads way in 'people power'

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE Big Society is alive and kicking in Harlow – that was the verdict of the Coalition Government minister tasked with championing the sweeping social initiative during a visit to the town on Thursday.

Conservative MP Nick Hurd, recently appointed as Minister for Civil Society, met councillors and representatives from the town's thriving voluntary sector to find out more about local community-led projects and organisations.

During his four-hour tour of the town he visited Rainbow Services, the Maybury Centre and Café Youth and met members of the Harlow Multi-Faith Forum before heading to the Civic Centre to officially launch Harlow Council's new Big Society website.

Speaking to the Star during his visit, Mr Hurd said he had been impressed with the level of 'community-led activity in the town and welcomed the council's commitment to support the future development of social enterprises and co-operatives.

"I have been hugely impressed by the sense of cohesion in the Harlow community and the real determination to work together to get things done," he said.

"A lot of the things we are trying to encourage in terms of communities taking more leadership about what they want to get done and the role of the voluntary sector within that is happening right here and now in Harlow.

"Harlow Council clearly gets what the Government is trying to do and has set up a fantastic web-based resource which I'm sure will encourage the people of Harlow to get involved in local Big Society projects."

Asked whether the much-vaunted Big Society initiative was merely a means of masking cuts to public spending, Mr Hurd defended the "political philosophy" behind the scheme.

"What we are saying is that over time people have become conditioned to think that the Government has got the solutions to everything, and in that process we've lost something in terms of our sense of obligation and responsibility to each other," he said.

"It's those values that we want to try and establish and encourage much more local leadership. Local people know what's best for Harlow and we want to give them the opportunity to express themselves."

Dedicated team champions Big Society

A DEDICATED team has been established to work closely with the voluntary sector and community organisations as Harlow Council embraces the Coalition Government's Big Society initiative.

The team is made up of four council officers who already work with residents' associations, undertake multi-agency work to find community solutions to anti-social behaviour and carry out intergenerational work to improve understanding and respect between young and old.

Their role will be expanded to work closely with community groups and neighbourhood forums. Their efforts will be supported by the authority's new Big Society website, where residents can find out about new projects and initiatives and keep up to date with local developments.

Councillor Joel Charles, chairman of Harlow Council's community & citizenship policy working group, said: "We are well placed to deliver the Big Society programme.

"We have a well-established voluntary sector ready and willing to do more for the community and we are rolling out neighbourhood forums across the town, which will give people more say and power over the things that matter to them.

"We have a number of active residents' associations working in the town and we also have a strong youth council and a range of youth services making Harlow an ideal place to pilot elements of the proposed national citizens' service."

Station refurb completed in time to mark its 50th year

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE new-look Harlow Town station was officially reopened on Friday following a £390,000 refurbishment.

The Grade II listed building, which this year celebrates its 50th anniversary, now boasts a modern booking hall and upgraded passenger footbridge complete with new waiting areas, timetable boards and improved lighting.

Platform access has also been improved for disabled passengers and people with pushchairs and heavy luggage, while eight new disabled parking bays have been provided adjacent to the station forecourt.

Completing the dramatic overhaul is the station's new £3m multi-storey station car park, which was funded separately by National Express East Anglia and now provides 700 spaces for commuters.

Guest of honour at Friday's unveiling ceremony was Harlow MP Rob Halfon, who told the Star he was "blown away" by the transformation.

"It's absolutely incredible," he said. "For so many years now the station has looked tired and in dire need of attention, but now it looks fantastic.

"First impressions are very important and the first impression people getting off the train will now have is that Harlow really is the place to be.

"A lot of thought has been put into the project and the standard of the work really does look first-rate. I was blown away when I first saw it."

Work on the station was funded through a partnership between National Express East Anglia (NXEA), Harlow Renaissance and Essex County Council.

Mark Phillips, deputy managing director of NXEA, said: "We have been delighted to work in partnership with Harlow Renaissance and Essex County Council on the improvement scheme at Harlow Town and with Bourne Parking to construct the new car park which together has totally transformed the station.

"I am very grateful for the support of our partners which has enabled this project to proceed."

Drop off old batteries at Civic Centre

USED batteries can now be recycled at the Civic Centre as Harlow Council steps up efforts to reduce the amount of waste going to landfill.

The average Harlow household uses 21 batteries a year. These can now be taken to the reception desk at the council's offices in The Water Gardens for recycling.

Tony Hall, executive, chairman of the council's environment policy working group, said: "Hundreds of batteries that could be recycled are going to waste every year so we are keen to give residents the opportunity to recycle as many of them as possible."

"Houses and low rise properties can also recycle batteries through the quarterly kerbside collection through ECCO. "This new service offers residents the opportunity to bring them to the Civic Centre who may not have access to the kerbside service."

According to the Waste & Resources Action Programme, around 600 million household batteries weighing 22,000 tonnes – the equivalent of 110 jumbo jets – are sent to landfill every year.

Pair jailed for drunken mugging in Town Park

60 years married and they still hold hands!

CHILDHOOD sweethearts Douglas and Joan Weatherley will celebrate 60 years of marriage today (Thursday) with a party at their favourite Harlow social club.

The couple tied the knot at Woolwich Register Office in 1950 after Mr Weatherley completed his National Service. They settled in Harlow in 1955 following the birth of their first two children.

Mr Weatherley (80) worked at United Glass in Edinburgh Way – eventually clocking up 36 years with the company – while Mrs Weatherley (78) was employed as an electrical inspector. The arrival of a third child saw the couple move to their current home in Kingsland in 1962.

The couple have already celebrated their anniversary with family and close friends at a big get-together on Saturday.

"We had a wonderful time with our family and friends and now we're looking forward to our second party," said Mrs Weatherley. "After all, when you've been married as long as we have you deserve at least a couple of parties!"

"I think the main reason we've had such a happy marriage is that we tolerate each other. We have the occasional argument like everybody else, but we never let it spiral out of control."

"We still hold hands when we go out together, not bad for a couple who've been together since we were kids!"

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertssexnews.co.uk

A PAIR of drunken robbers have been jailed for violently mugging two people in Harlow Town Park in what the judge described as an "ugly" attack.

Simon Edmands (23), of Upper Mealines, Harlow, and Tristan Ambrose (18), of Challinor, Harlow, were both sentenced to 15 months after pleading guilty at Chelmsford Crown Court on Friday to a charge of robbery.

The incident occurred on October 23 last year when the defendants approached a group of people heading home after a night out.

They kicked, punched and stamped on two men in the group before robbing them of items including a mobile phone and a pack of cigarettes.

Lawyers representing the pair said they had both been drinking heavily before the incident.

Jane Oldfield, for Edmands, said: "This was out of character. He is described as quiet and shy, and now spends his time with his skateboarding friends."

James Howard, representing Ambrose, told the court: "He says he had numerous bottles of beer and cannot fully remember what happened."

Jailing the pair, judge David Turner said: "Violence went beyond minimal force; it was ugly and involved innocent members of the public."

"You approached a group, property was taken – not of enormous value – and punches and blows thrown. It's very sad for your decent families."

Sunflight sets a world record

A SOLAR-powered plane has smashed aviation records by flying non-stop for 14 days.

The Zephyr was designed and built in the UK but made its record-breaking flight above a US Army base in Arizona.

Although there is no room for a pilot or passengers, it is hoped the technology used by the aircraft could one day power passenger planes.

"We are just really delighted with the performance," said project manager Jon Saltmarsh. "It's the culmination of a lot of years of effort from a huge number of really talented scientists and engineers."

The Zephyr's wings are packed full of lithium-sulphur batteries that are charged up by the paper-thin solar panels. The energy they produce is enough to power the plane's two propellers.

During its record-breaking flight, Zephyr lost some altitude at night but the energy stored in the batteries from its daytime charging was more than enough to keep it in the air.

Not a single drop of fuel was used to keep it in the air and experts now believe Zephyr could hold the key to flights continuing during future fuel shortages.

The only downside is that if it is too cloudy, the plane starts to run out of power because it needs sunlight to charge the engines.

Cyclists raise funds for PAH baby care unit

STAFF and parents of babies treated in the neo-natal department at Princess Alexandra Hospital have cycled 13½ miles to raise cash for the redevelopment of the unit's intensive care facilities.

A group of almost 60 cyclists pedalled their way through Harlow, Matching Tye, Sheering and the surrounding area.

The route started and finished at the hospital.

Once the cyclists had completed the ride they joined hospital staff and supporters for a barbecue.

The event was organised by Lisa Wilson, who works in the hospital's recruitment team, and her firefighter husband, Chris.

"It really was an excellent day and

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsexnews.co.uk

could not have gone any better," said Lisa, who has already been approached about running the event again next year. "What helped was the fact the weather was kind to us, too.

"It has been extremely well supported by staff, patients' relatives and local cycle group Harlow Cycling, who led the ride for us.

"In addition to the 57 riders who took part, I want to thank everyone who gave up their time to help, especially my husband Chris who was focused on the promotion of cycling and cycling safely.

"Danni, our fitness instructor who started the day by warming up our riders was amazing, as were the marshals of the route and the team that prepared the barbecue food."

Among those who took part was Debbie Twist, head of paediatrics at PAH. She said: "Lisa has done a fantastic job with the event for which we are extremely grateful.

"The donations that have been made, both online and from the sponsors, will be put towards the £500,000 NICU appeal.

"We are hoping to raise a minimum of £5,000 from this, the first of many fundraising events planned to support the build of a new unit that will offer all the premature and sick children we treat the best possible start in life."

Donations can still be made by visiting www.justgiving.com/neonatalcharitybikeride.

Home's farewell to popular Joan

STAFF and residents at Ashlyn Care Centre, in Vicarage Wood, Harlow, have bid an emotional farewell to their activities co-ordinator.

Centre manager Carol Doherty presented Joan with cards, flowers and gifts from staff and residents at a farewell party.

A spokeswoman for the centre said Joan was known and loved for her enthusiasm and commitment.

"Over the years she put tremendous effort into the events she organised, always coming up with amazing ideas for filling the residents' days full of fun and laughter," she said.

"Whether she was organising a garden fete, a trip down memory lane, a visit from Father Christmas or a Hallowe'en party, Joan went that one step further, always getting into the swing of things and doing it all with a smile.

"We wish her good luck in her. She will be missed."

Anniversary party

A COUNSELLING charity based at the Latton Bush Centre in Harlow has celebrated its 21st birthday with a garden party.

The CALM Centre, formerly known as Harlow Well Woman, offers high quality, accessible and confidential counselling services. Earlier this year it appointed its first patron, actor Ian Puleston-Davies, who is currently starring in Coronation Street.

The charity was founded under the name Harlow Well Woman in 1988 by three women, one of whom – Lee Morris – is still on the board of directors.

Elizabeth Gregg-Smith, executive director of CALM, said: "We would like to extend our grateful thanks to the Harlow Health Centres Trust, one of our current funders, who made a very generous contribution to the event.

"The event was well attended by nearly 80 guests, all of whom have been involved with the centre in some way over the past 21 years.

The CALM Centre offers both charitable and fee paying services. For further details, visit the website at www.calmcentre.co.uk or call (01279) 411330 between 9.30am-5pm.

Appeal fundraisers

THREE more events have been organised to raise cash for Princess Alexandra Hospital's intensive therapy unit ventilator appeal.

The year-long campaign to raise £47,500 is into the final three months and events taking place soon include:

- A race night at Harlow Greyhound Stadium on Friday September 10 (tickets cost £5, £10 and £20)
- A square dancing night at the

PAH Social Club on Friday, September 17 (tickets costing £7.50)

● A charity ball and auction at the Manor of Groves Hotel on Saturday, October 30 (tickets cost £60).

The appeal is to raise funds for a high frequency oscillator ventilator which helps people with severe lung disease to breathe easier.

Sarah Jones, a sister in the ITU, who strated the appeal with colleague Claire McClements, said: "The ward does not have this type of ventilator and instead hires one when someone needs it at a cost of £2,200 per week.

"It makes sense for us to purchase our own one which is why we have started this campaign. To date everyone has been very generous with their donations and we hope that people will continue to support these three remaining events."

For more information or to purchase tickets to any other fundraisers, call the Critical Care Office on (01279) 827904 or email sarah.jones1@pah.nhs.uk or claire.mcclements@pah.nhs.uk.

Fire service chiefs seeking views on efficiency savings

COUNTY fire chiefs are launching their biggest ever consultation on changes which they say will transform the service.

Essex County Fire and Rescue Service wants public input before making decisions which could save millions of pounds.

Chief Fire Officer David Johnson said: "We are having to look at everything we do in a very challenging way and ask ourselves whether or not there is a different, more efficient and effective way."

"While my responsibility will remain keeping our communities safe and protecting the safety of our workforce, I wholeheartedly believe that in a year or two we will be looking at a transformed organisation."

He added: "Extraordinary times require extraordinary action. Senior officers do not hold the monopoly on good ideas and there are people throughout the county who have a few brilliant ideas about how we might do things differently."

"This is the time to get all of those ideas on the table. We are looking at total transformation and that means total engagement from everyone, whoever they are and wherever they live."

The public consultation is running alongside an internal consultation asking staff to contribute their own ideas for efficiency savings. The views and suggestions made in the public survey and the internal consultation will then help shape the future of the service.

The survey can be found online at www.surveymonkey.com/s/ECFRS_Transformation

GP service axed from walk-in health centre

ON YER BIKE:

Police act to curb off-road bike nuisance

POLICE are cracking down on off-road bikers riding on public roads or parks in Sawbridgeworth following a number of complaints from local residents.

The town's Safer Neighbourhood Team has erected signs warning riders their bikes could be seized if they are caught riding in public without tax and insurance.

PC Tina Mustoe said: "Off-road bike users should not be using our local parks or roads to ride and by doing so they are making these places dangerous for other people. We will use our powers to seize these vehicles."

"We will be carrying out extra patrols across these locations to monitor the situation and will act accordingly."

PEOPLE visiting the NHS Walk-In Centre in Harlow will no longer be able to see a doctor after health bosses decided to axe onsite access to a GP because of a lack of demand.

Up until the beginning of this month a GP has been available at the Wych Elm facility to assess children under the age of two, but due to the relatively low number of youngsters taken to the centre the service has now been withdrawn.

Under-twos will now be met by a nurse practitioner and either redirected to primary care or streamed through A&E should the problem require acute-based services.

The rest of the centre's services will remain unaffected, with patients still receiving assessment, advice and treatment for a range of minor injuries and illnesses without the need to make an appointment.

Patients not requiring urgent care, or those for

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertssexnews.co.uk

whom treatment would be more appropriately provided by their own GP, will be re-directed to their own surgeries, with assistance given to secure an appointment during surgery opening hours.

Depending on clinical need, it will also still be possible for patients to arrange an appointment to see an out-of-hours doctor.

Alex Green, clinical delivery manager for NHS West Essex, said: "Harlow Walk-In Centre will continue to complement local hospital services and GPs by providing assessment, advice and treatment for a range of minor injuries and illnesses, without the need to make an appointment or attend A&E."

Anyone with any issues relating to the changes at the Walk-In Centre should contact the NHS West Essex Making Experience Count Team on 0800 78 333 96.

A warm welcome awaits at Ashlyn...

While it can be difficult for many elderly people and their families, adjusting to life in residential care is far easier when the chosen Home is of a high standard, with good facilities and, more importantly, a friendly, cosy atmosphere. That's why Ashlyn Care Centre should be your first port of call when seeking care for those you love in Essex.

Ashlyn is a purpose built home recently modernised, providing residential care for older people and people with Dementia, High Dependency needs and Residential Nursing and situated on Vicarage Road in Harlow. The Home is designed over two floors and has a lovely, safe enclosed Courtyard garden situated in the middle of the Home together with fenced outside gardens for the residents' use.

While proud of its levels of care, the thing Ashlyn really prides itself on is its home from home atmosphere. The Centre has the benefit of its own Activities Co-ordinator who identifies the hobbies and interests of residents and devises individual activity programmes as well as arranging group activities. Activities include Bingo, Quizzes, Arts and Crafts, Dementia Programmes and Sing-a-longs. These activities are very much enjoyed by all at Ashlyn and form the cornerstones of its friendly and warm atmosphere. In house entertainment is also arranged together with outings and picnics.

Community out in force for opening of play area

THE grand opening of a new multi-function sports and play area in the Berecroft neighbourhood of Harlow was marked with an action-packed community fun day.

Residents tucked into a barbecue and enjoyed a range of activities set up to showcase the new facilities in Rye Hill Park, which include football pitches, basketball and netball courts, a playground, picnic area and youth shelter. The project was the brainchild of the local residents' association, which wanted to provide a safe area for families to enjoy a range of outdoor pursuits on their own doorstep.

It was funded by social housing specialists United House, Pitney Bowes and with money raised by local police and volunteers.

Terry Kirkby, corporate liaison manager at Pitney Bowes, said: "It has taken a lot of effort from various parties to complete the project. Seeing the local community enjoying the area is a reward for all of the hard work.

"Pitney Bowes and its employees take great care and pride in supporting charitable causes such as this."

Mick Reardon, site manager for United House, added: "The great atmosphere at the fun day reflects the positive feedback we have had from local residents for the play area."

Drug addict imprisoned his partner

A CROWN court judge has warned of the dangers of using cannabis to excess after jailing a man who attacked his partner with a knife and later kept her locked in chains for two hours at their home in Harlow

Stewart Boochoon (27), formerly of Seymours, was sent to prison for 28 months at Chelmsford Crown Court on Thursday.

As he passed sentence, Judge David Turner said the case should serve as a warning about the dangers of sustained cannabis use.

"If anybody had any doubt at all of the danger of cannabis as a drug taken to excess then this story illustrates what can happen," he told Boochoon.

"I am entirely satisfied what was behind this was an excessive use of cannabis over a long period. It got to your head and messed with it in a major way.

"I think you were in a drug-induced psychosis of some sort; that's the medical evidence. If you were to return to cannabis on your release and that was to bring you into contact with the law and violence, the subsequent sentence would have serious consequences indeed."

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Boochoon admitted false imprisonment and unlawful wounding.

Samantha Lowther, prosecuting, said Boochoon believed he was owed £10,000 by the parents of his victim – Adele O'Neil – and between April and July last year waved a small kitchen knife around, cutting her arm.

In the second incident he locked her in the house, told her to lie down and tied her hands behind her in chains.

Giving evidence, Ms O'Neil told the court of Boochoon's "paranoia and obsession" with £10,000, as well as his violence and drug abuse.

Olajumoke Hughes, representing Boochoon, said the defendant was half Trinidadian and half English and wanted to go to Trinidad when he is released from prison.

"The most important person in his life is his father who doesn't live in the UK," said Mr Hughes. "His motivation is not to take cannabis again."

The judge also imposed a five-year order on Boochoon which forbids him from contacting Ms O'Neil.

Young cast flourish in a Garden of delights

REVIEW

The Secret Garden
Harlow Theatre Company
Victoria Hall Theatre, Old Harlow

A PROPHETIC paean to the power of positive thought, Frances Hodgson Burnett's The Secret Garden is that rarest of literary joys – ageless in its themes and breathtaking in its capacity to entrance, engage and entertain.

A respected author whose prodigious talent was equalled only by her popularity, Burnett may have rooted her most famous work in a peculiarly Edwardian whimsy but this is a tale well ahead of its time in other ways.

Few children's books published in the early years of the 20th century will have dealt so explicitly with the supposedly modern topics of depression and occupational therapy.

But any concerns the story would lose its powerful thematic resonance in its transferral from page to stage were resoundingly quashed by Harlow Theatre Company's masterful adaptation.

It was testament to the skill and vision of director Jane Prangnell to recognise the central character as the eponymous garden itself.

Its transformative, restorative qualities were beautifully realised by Trevor Paveley and Jim Thompson's set. A triumph of low-tech ingenuity, its ivy-strewn walls folded away to reveal a bountiful living garden complete with charming puppet animals that grew with the turning of the seasons.

The play's predominantly young cast were equally impressive; Molly Jenkins utterly captivating as Mary, who blossoms from neurotic, self-obsessed brat to a glowing, almost maternal ray of sunshine, gently coaxed from her pampered torpor by Toby Stacey's cheerful turn as pure-hearted devotee Dickon and Steve Foster's kindly, avuncular gardener Ben Weatherstaff. Pompous Colin, played with relish by Robin Gibbs, was harder to warm to but his remarkable transformation from depressed, housebound cry-baby to jocular man-of-the-soil was a joy to watch, as was his broken-hearted father's (played by Andrew Prangnell) journey from melancholia to gratifying enlightenment.

Yet another feather in HTC's well-decorated cap, this was an enchanting, faithful adaptation of a well-loved tale that transcends age and effortlessly leaps generation gaps. After all, we all need a little magic in our lives.

The exhibition – Four Moore Sculptors – is at The Gallery at Parndon Mill until Sunday and features works by James Copper, John Farnham, Derek Howarth and Malcolm Woodward. Admission is free.

>>ART Continuing the Henry Moore theme, the Gibberd Gallery in Harlow Civic Centre is now hosting an exhibition of the celebrated artist's depictions of sheep to tie in with the town's Summertime Sheep Trail. Moore's representations of sheep are among the most popular of his works and provided the inspiration for his monumental bronze sculpture Sheep Piece. The exhibition runs until October 30 and admission is free.

TV star gives tips to Academy kids

BUDDING thespians were treated to an acting masterclass when former Hollyoaks star Gary Lucy paid a visit to a Harlow performing arts school.

Youngsters at the Kevin Adams Academy were given advice on how to carve out a successful acting career before quizzing Gary about his time on TV shows including Grange Hill and The Bill. Kevin Adams, who runs the academy which is based at Passmores School in Tendra Road, said: "It was great to have Gary drop in and give the kids some acting tuition."

"He's had a very successful career in television and our students really enjoyed learning more about his career and some of the challenges they can expect to face should they want to follow in his footsteps."

Action comedy flawed by a lack of emotional punch

KNIGHT AND DAY
certificate 12A 1h49m

TOM Cruise and Cameron Diaz have starred in some of the most financially successful and critically acclaimed films of the past 25 years, yet put these two Hollywood superstars in the same camera shot and the results are lacklustre to say the least.

Their first collaboration, Vanilla Sky, an English language remake of the Spanish thriller, was confusing, illogical and uninviting. Now these two talented actors reunite for James Mangold's fast-paced action comedy that has lots of crash, bang but almost no emotional wallop.

There is a seed of a good idea in Patrick O'Neill's screenplay but the actor-turned-writer doesn't yet have the experience to knit together the comedy and action elements into a fluid and coherent narrative.

June Havens (Diaz) is an unassuming midwestern girl who is in the wrong place at the wrong time. Boarding a flight bound for Boston, she is unexpectedly caught in the crossfire of a mid-air shoot out between paranoid government agent Roy Miller (Cruise) and gun-toting assassins.

She wakes the next morning believing that her high-altitude adventure was nothing more than a bad dream, only for Miller to abduct her from a diner in front of would-be suitor Rodney (Marc Blucas).

Now marked for death, she must learn quickly the tricks of the spy trade to stay alive and avoid an early grave at the hands of Antonio (Jordi Molla) and his henchmen.

Meanwhile, CIA director Isabel George and Agent Fitzgerald try to persuade June that Roy is a rogue spy who must be stopped before he hands a newly discovered perpetual energy source to US enemies.

Knight And Day gallops across the globe from Boston to Salzburg and finally to Seville for a spectacular finale during a bull run. However, it's hard to muster concern about Roy and June when the screenplay pays such scant attention to character development.

The twist is heavily signposted and the lead stars seem to be bulletproof when it matters, emerging from the melee virtually unscathed when lesser mortals would be riddled with bullets and bound for the mortuary slab.

CATS AND DOGS: THE REVENGE OF KITTY GALORE
certificate U 1h22m

AFTER years in hiding, Kitty Galore (voiced by Bette Midler) breaks cover to steal valuable technology which she needs to construct a device that will get rid of the pesky dogs once and for all.

Lou (Neil Patrick Harris) and his covert team of canine superagents are soon on the case and they induct clumsy police dog Diggs (James Marsden) into their ranks to work alongside veteran Butch (Nick Nolte) to save the day. A pigeon called Seamus (Katt Williams) provides clues to Kitty Galore's dastardly plan, but to defeat the mad moggy the dogs have to join forces with agents from MEOWS (Mousers Enforcing Our World Safety). With the clock ticking until doomsday, the two species unite in the fight against Kitty's evil antics.

LUKE (Rick Malambri) is an aspiring filmmaker who owns a warehouse in New York City called The Vault where young dancers live together and hone their craft, performing as The Pirates.

Rent on the property is months in arrears and unless Luke can find the balance quickly, dancer Julian (Joe Slaughter) from rival troupe The Samurai will buy the warehouse at auction.

As luck would have it, the World Jam is just weeks away with a first prize of $100,000. Luke gathers together his troops and adds NYU freshman Moose (Adam G Sevani) and sex bomb Natalie (Sharni Vinson) to the mix, while secretly cutting together a documentary about how dance has changed these young people's lives.

Aries Mar 21-Apr 20

You're going to need to juggle the side of you that likes to do your own thing, with the expectations of others, who will very much want you to do their thing! The best way through this is with compromise on both sides, and copious amounts of give and take. Circumstances could seem to cramp your style, especially if you're a less conventional type. Call for more advice...

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23

Mars joins your sign, and this is going to stiffen your resolve, not just now, but in the next two months. New beginnings excite you, but do be wary of expecting everything to fall into place, in a trice. These plans will require patience, and your natural diplomacy can be tested to the full. You may also be less inclined to be guided by convention. Call me now for more news and advice...

Taurus Apr 21-May 21

You can work tremendously hard this week and if there's any overtime available, you could be the first to put their hand up. Equally, volunteer, don't overdo it, especially over the weekend. Give yourself permission to do because more and more things for you. Your motivation to catch up on domestic chores can also be high. Getting your hands in earth can be good for the soul. Call for your in-depth forecast...

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22

Sensitive material can surface. Memories that are linked to difficult or painful events could have a tendency to come up. Equally, someone can remind you of something. There can be stress at work, because more and more is piled onto you, without a thought for your welfare. Don't take situations at face value for some secret opposition could be mounting. Call me for your in-depth forecast...

Gemini May 22-Jun 21

A more amorous side of your nature can take a partner by surprise. However, you can be feeling both impish and romantic. Yet if this fails to resonate with them, you may find yourselves at loggerheads. Everyone needs to show a good deal of patience this week, so this calls on you to show some tact. Understand this change may not be easy to respond to. Call for your love scope...

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21

New horizons can tempt you. You can be a freedom loving person and your adventurous spirit can feel cramped by convention and the expectations of even friends. Yet if you are not careful, this could appear like you want absolutely everything your own way. One friendship could suffer from this, or perhaps each of you wants different things now. Call your prediction line for more news...

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23

If you have gutting swinging wildly in the wind or a roof tile loose, this can be a fine week to get the repairs in motion. Yet you can find yourself in a pricklier mood than usual, and may prefer to find space for yourself. That's fine, but if solitary pursuits are not possible will people feel that they're walking on glass, such is your defensiveness? Call for more news and astral advice...

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20

Be it in fashion, music or gadgets, you can have an uncanny knack of sensing where trends are heading. This can make you a kingpin with your friends, because anything that is cutting edge, can find you at the forefront. You may also make an audacious move in love or at work. You're brimming with confidence, but remember that pride goes before a fall. Call for your love scope...

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23

This is not the best of times to rush from pillar to post, and yet that's exactly what you can find yourself doing. You are in the mood for extra zest, both physical and mental. But this can also see you nerved up and if you don't pace yourself, you'll bang a shin or turn an ankle. Yet if you are a crossword or puzzle fiend, you can be on very top form. Call your prediction line for more...

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19

If you have felt unsettled in any kind of relationship, now, as a new month unfolds, you can put your foot down hard, and head off to more enterprising possibilities. But don't rush in where angels fear to tread. Although you can show a buccaneering side of your nature, not everything from the past is ripe for change. Resist change, for change's sake. Call for your love scope...

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23

You see something and you want it. Yes, there can be a real compulsion to enjoying life's goodies. But with Saturn lying in wait for the forceful, Mars. However, the problem go get it Mars, double check with this is that it can make your bank account before us much more egotistical going on a splurge. Also about our own needs, to the check statements from last month to see what is due to others. Now it moves, and come out this week. This with the diplomatic vibes of way you can avoid leaving Mercury it will get easier, to yourself short. Call for your rub along. Call for more financial forecast in full... astral advice...

Marque of a true supercar

By MATT JOY

IT'S hard to believe that just a few months ago you couldn't buy a four-door Aston Martin.

The range has consisted exclusively of coupes and cabriolets, yet there's undeniably an audience out there who would love the combination of British muscle and style but with the capacity to bring the kids or some worthy friends.

Now you can. Following its European debut earlier in the year, the Rapide is available in the UK, which means anyone about to indulge in a top-drawer sporting luxury machine needs to pay close attention.

It's also going head-to-head with some other desirable marques – Porsche, Maserati, Jaguar, Bentley – all of which have something to offer in this sector of the market.

However, there's no question that the Aston is the most beautiful of the bunch. You'll recognise some of it if you're familiar with the rest of the Aston range, as the Rapide is clearly based on the DB9 coupe.

At first the obvious stretch in the wheelbase can seem a bit too far, especially for those familiar with the DB9's proportions, but it doesn't take long to realise that the balance of the shape is spot on.

FACTfile

Aston Martin Rapide

£144,950

ENGINE	6.0-litre V12 petrol producing 470bhp
TRANSMISSION	Six-speed automatic driving the rear wheels
PERFORMANCE	0-62mph in 5.3 seconds / top speed 188mph
ECONOMY	19mpg
CO₂ EMISSIONS	355g/km

The Rapide's front end is handsome and dramatic and it demands the presence that a car of these dimensions can deliver. The sweeping rake of the rear window and neatly integrated rear doors are far more coupe-like than saloon, while the pert rear completes the undeniably gorgeous shape.

The difficulty, of course, is keeping the svelte exterior whilst offering sufficient room to make the rear seats a viable proposition as well as retaining a useful boot. Thankfully, Aston knows its clients well and the Rapide manages to tread the fine line.

The rear doors operate in the same way as the fronts, with the gorgeous swan-wing mechanism that seems them opening up as well as out, giving a bigger opening than a conventional door. The aperture itself is modestly sized given that this isn't a limousine, but entry and exit is sufficiently graceful even for the short of skirt.

Swing your legs into the back and you are met with the kind of sumptuous and stylish cabin that has become a key part of an Aston's appeal. Here the wide transmission tunnel runs between the seats, giving a cosy feel to the rear.

There's space in the back, too. Not as much as you'd find in a full-on luxu barge but this is a sports car. So you get a sports seat, comfortable but also designed to hold you steady should the driver decide to stretch the legs.

And they surely will be stretched, because under the shark-like nose of the Rapide lies the delicious 6.0-litre V12 used in both the DB9 and V12

Vantage. Here it produces 470bhp and 442lb.ft of torque, and although the figures are impressive it is the engine's character that really dominates the experience. It is happy to tick along at barely 2,000rpm and 70mph, eating up mile after mile in effortless style. Just a gentle squeeze of the throttle is all that's required to up the pace.

Leave the excellent Touchtronic transmission to its own devices and it will stay in gear; but squeeze harder and it will drop down a gear or two for maximum acceleration. Do so and the Rapide really punches hard, powering on to 188mph with a glorious bellow coming from the engine room.

The Rapide also performs with all the agility of its smaller siblings through the bends. The inevitable increase in weight thanks to the greater dimensions does not affect its swift responses, helped by a higher ratio steering rack.

On the standard 20-inch wheels the ride quality is firm but comfortable and the upshot is a lack of fuss over bumps and a truly engaging experience when pressing on.

The best bit is that you can take your mates, too. The minimum boot space is a useful 317 litres which can be increased in a number of ways including folding the rear seats to offer a very generous 886 litres, proving that the Rapide can offer true practicality as well as a genuine sports car experience. Of course it doesn't come cheap, but it delivers everything you could possibly want and more. None of its rivals can offer so much.

Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).
Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.
What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

End of the road? Get over it and move on with your local ATF:

We offer free collection, on the same day if necessary, using our own recovery vehicles and issue a Certificate of Destruction from the Department of Vehicle Licensing Authority via our direct link to their website. Payment per vehicle negotiable.

Three years on and still no field events for HAC

By DAVID RIMMER
rimmerd@hertssexnews.co.uk

THE wait for Harlow Athletic Club to host a home meeting in the Southern Men's League will go on for ANOTHER year.

Work by developers on the new track facility at Mark Hall Sportscentre was actually completed in 2007.

The green light appeared to be given for track AND field events when the facility was given a Class 3 status from UK Athletics' Eastern Region last year.

This meant the club and Mark Hall School could stage full competitive athletic meetings.

Previously only a Class 5 status was given so the club, which was previously based at Hammarskjold Road, was unable to hold competitions in pole vault, hammer, discus and shot put events.

The Star has learned that there have been problems with the infield which has prevented Harlow AC members from staging field events.

However, Mark Hall Sportscentre manager Lindsey Ruby said: "I have received a letter from Harlow Athletic Club stating they are happy for their athletes to fill in their holes they create from the throwing area."

"We have had that backing from England Athletics and UK Athletics for that to happen. They stated it is not an unreasonable request."

Ruby added that the London Road facility had held a junior event for Harlow Athletic Club on July 9 and that this had been successful.

STATE-OF-THE-ART: The circuit at Mark Hall Sportscentre. Inset, former Harlow AC chairman Chris Clark shows the plans for the new site in 2005

Ruby said that no application had been received from Harlow AC to hold senior meetings.

UKA Eastern Regional Athletics Facility Assessor Ralph Burrows was positive about the stadium but that is not only about the track and field facility.

He told the Star: "It [an inspection on the facility] was carried out last year by myself. It was not suitable for pole vaulting because it was not presented for inspection.

"There is nothing wrong with it [the infield]. To put on a meeting needs staff. It needs ancillary support. It needs car parking. [Announcing] the results needs to be close to the action."

Burrows is not responsible for checking the ancillary needs but stressed an annual inspection needs to be carried out on the entire complex.

Ruby said the Sportscentre will ask Burrows to carry out another inspection in September.

There were previously problems with drainage in the field, but this has been improved.

But for now the wait goes on for Harlow AC. The club last staged a Southern Athletics League meeting at its old Sportcentre stadium in 1993.

The track was deemed unsuitable on health and safety grounds and the club were forbidden from staging competitive events there from 1993.

In 2005 work started to build the state-of-the-art complex at Mark Hall using money from the Gateway Project.

Developers have used the club's old site for new housing after demolishing the old Sportcentre which was built in the mid-1960s.

U-10s tame Dragon Cup teams

MARK Hall Youth U-10s rounded off their summer campaign by winning the Wivenhoe Town Football Club Dragons Cup tournament.

The team from Harlow won all six matches, defeating F2 Elite Football Academy 2-0, courtesy of a goal from Sonny Hellmers-Cleaveley and an own goal.

In doing so, Hall scored 18 goals and conceded one.

This was their third summer tournament win. They earlier won the Ware Youth World Cup summer tournament and football festival and Harefield United FC's summer tournament.

These triumphs followed the team winning the West Essex & East Herts League and Cup, as well as the Charity Shield last season.

Hall's manager Troy Mead said: "I would like to thank all the players for a fantastic season and all their hard work and commitment and am very much looking forward to the forthcoming season."

"It was a long season with all the extra tournaments that we entered and now the boys can enjoy their summer break."

Debbie takes Flight at British final

HARLOW trampolinist Debbie Langford won her category when she competed in the British National Grade C Finals.

The 30-year-old member of the Harlow-based Flight Trampoline Club won the age 19-plus ladies category at the Birmingham National Indoor Arena.

International performance coach and Flight TC head coach Garry Leach said: "I have coached her for 24 years and she's very dedicated. It's a matter of holding your nerve on the day."

"She's the third one to win from the club after twin brothers Matthew and Richard McGirr won in 2001 and 2002."

Flight TC member Kirsty Smith came third in the U-17 girls category.

Amanda Jay, Ainee Foo and Kirsty Peacock came third in the team event.

Four other members from the club competed. James Page (19 plus male) was 13th while Amanda Jay, Kirsty Peacock and Ainee Foo (19 plus females) were 31st, 19th and 40th respectively.

The six booked their spots from various qualifiers.

Langford won the over 19 female category in Hull, Smith won the U-17 girls in Birmingham.

Warren looking to bolster squad with new signings

HAWKS boss Kevin Warren has offered deals to left winger Louis Riddle and midfielder Andy Porter to join Harlow Town.

The pair have come to Harlow after preparing for the new campaign with some pre-season training at Blue Square South club Braintree Town.

Riddle, who was dogged by injuries at Bishop's Stortford last term after being at Braintree, is a real asset when on song.

He played for most of Harlow's friendly at Ridgeons League premier division side Leiston on Saturday which the home side won 1-0.

Porter also figured in the Leiston game and in the 2-1 win friendly win against St Margaretsbury at Tesco Country Club in Cheshunt on Tuesday.

Warren said: "I have made offers to Andy and Louis and am confident they will sign. Andy is an experienced footballer and a good tackler.

"Louis has got lots of energy and is versatile. He can also play at left back and up front."

However, midfielder Danny Hayes and striker Chris Ellerbeck have been released by Warren.

"It is a shame I have had to release Danny. He has a great attitude but I have just too many players in his positions (right wing or central midfield).

"Chris found it hard to commit to pre-season. I have other players who are fitter."

The sole goal at Leiston came on 41 minutes when Hawks skipper Rhys Madden punched a throw off a home player's head and it fell to Leon Uttley-Gooch to finish.

Harlow striker Che Stadhart thought he had headed the ball over the line for an equaliser on 68 minutes but the referee ruled otherwise.

Warren said: "We had lots of chances and played well against a side who would finish in the top four of our division."

In Tuesday's game, St Margaretsbury went ahead in the first half before Bradley Barnes levelled the scores on 52 minutes and Stadhart struck the winner 24 minutes later.

Harlow continue their pre-season campaign with a home clash against Tooting and Mitcham on Saturday before they host Concord Rangers on Tuesday.

Harlow beaten but stay second

Leigh on Sea 247, Harlow 188-9 (Harlow lost by 59 runs)
Shepherd Neame Essex League div two

RYAN Jessey is determined to come back from a nasty eye injury and play for Harlow at Stanford le Hope on Saturday.

The Harlow batsman needed six stitches above his left eye after a bouncer from Leigh on Sea quick bowler Henk Holtzhausen slipped between the top grill and peak of his helmet.

Harlow went on to lose the game but are still in second spot as the team below them were also defeated.

Jessey said: "There is no crack or break. I want to play; we have promotion to go for."

Leigh batted first and slipped to 36-5 with ex-Essex quick bowler McGarry claiming four wickets.

Then Joe Sexton made a brilliant 91 in 77 balls and Mark Sexton chipped in with 32 before a good innings from Holtzhausen (47) with backing from the tail ensured Leigh posted a competitive score of 247 all out. McGarry took 4-56.

Harlow slipped to 20-2 in reply.

Rehman Ahmed, pictured above, made 48 and shared a third wicket stand of 62 with Luke Monger, who scored 24.

However, Jessey retired hurt after five balls and although Rehman Ahmed made a sound 64 there was no way back for Harlow.

Because of Jessey's injury only nine wickets had to be taken by Leigh for victory. Holtzhausen took 5-46.

Harlow skipper Jason McNally said: "We batted and, after the initial bit, bowled badly. Hopefully we can hold things together in our last five games."

● HARLOW TOWN's title hopes were virtually ended when they lost by five wickets at Theydon Bois in division one of the Herts and Essex Cricket League.

The visitors batted first and struggled against South African bowler Craig De Almeida, who took 4-23.

Jason Gladwin (39) and Charlie Coleman (32) put on 52 for the Harlow's fifth wicket and Marc Lowers struck a useful 33 before Town were bowled out for 171.

Town failed to make an early breakthrough in the hosts' innings and although spinner Simon Rowell claimed 4-38 it did not stop the hosts (172-5) from reaching the target with two overs to spare.

Harlow Town host Epping Foresters this Saturday.

● A FIVE-WICKET haul for Dave Pistorious and a crucial 33 from Bilal Ali helped second placed Harlow II (139-9) defeat third placed High Beach (138) by one wicket in division three.

In the same division, Potter Street (210) overcame Ashdon (123) by 87 runs at home.

Tom Wilcox took three wickets and scored 26 as Harlow Town IIIs (92-6) went third in division six after beating Matching Green II (91) by 4 wickets. In division seven, Potter Street II's game at Little Bardfield was abandoned.
